Living in this world enriched with tools of communication, everyone seems connected and we try hard to stay connected. Meanwhile, we find ourselves in this cycle of getting to know someone and then being afraid to know more people.

Luckily, we are here at Annie Wright. Annie Wright Schools is a united community, or even a home to many of its students. The reason behind that can be easily figured out: we are all connected. It is us, connected together which forms this close community, and it is this friendly community which has made "connecting" much less intimidating.

This year, we explore how students at Annie Wright stay connected throughout the year both inside of school and outside of school.

Summer

For Fun

Summer is a time to connect with our community. Many Lower School students stay connected with Annie Wright by attending Camp Wright. Several Upper School students and alumni take on the role of being counselors there, too. Across the world, international students visit each other in their hometowns. Although school is not in session, we find our way back to each other.

Spending time in the library, Mr. Sullivan, Head of Schools, oversees the construction in the Library.

Reading a book Zyaire Cheatham, freshman, uses the library's new window seats.

Mr. Romano, the librarian, is reading to Mrs. Stickler's Second Grade class.

Alyssa Sanders and Loten Vu, Grade Three, use the new spiral staircase that connects to the technology lab.

Working together on a project Leila Stitou, freshman, and Gabrielle Buchan, junior, are using the new library and learning commons.

During the summer Sophomores Annika Cederstand and Britnie Casillas use the recording studio with Carsyn Kniss (MS '13).

This year there have been many exciting changes to our school. We have remodeled the library, added a recording studio and a new staircase leading down into the tech lab.

Mr. Romano, library specialist says "People are using the library in interesting and creative ways."

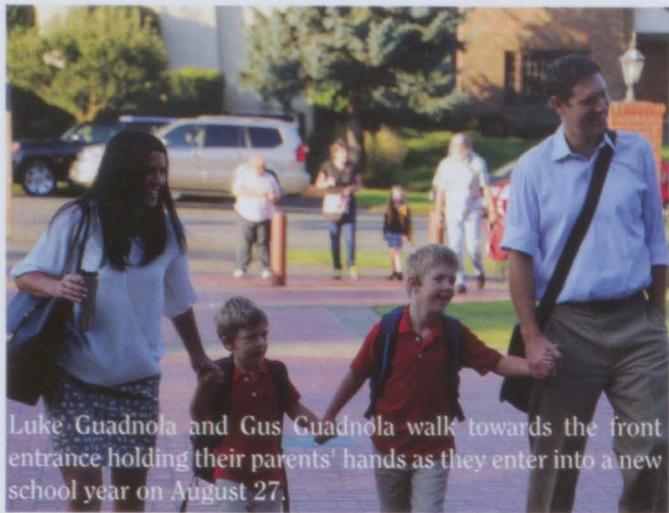

Fall

Opportunities

Fall at Annie Wright is a season full of opportunities to connect with others. At orientation, new students first join our big family and participate in various engaging activities. After we are well into the school year, events like Family Dance Night, Casino Night, Halloween, Dorm Thanksgiving, and so many more fun events unite Annie Wright students, encouraging us to make friends and to get connected.

This year, the first day of school at Annie Wright Schools took place on August 27, 2014. Many kids arrived ready to start a new year and looking forward to seeing all of their friends after the long summer break. For many students it was their first day at AWS and for others they had been attending AWS for many years. Many students have siblings who attend AWS or have graduated from AWS. Also, many students have parents that work at AWS.

Middle School spends the night at the campsite in the cabins. They find out their advisories during orientation by getting clues to help find one another. On the last day of orientation they have an annual tug-a-war with each other. The students that win go against the middle school faculty!

Freshmen through Juniors got put into new advisory groups and prepared to take on the Annie Olympics. Later in the evening on Thursday, the Green Ties (seniors) put on a crazy show for their lower classmen, introducing the quirky aspects of the teachers for the new and upcoming freshmen. Day students slept in the dorm, sharing funny stories and making memories with their friends old and new.

Back 2 School Picnic

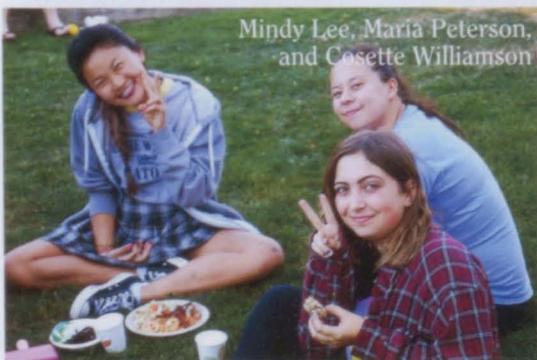

Get Started. The Back to School Picnic is an all-school social event which happens at the very beginning of the school year. Kids have fun on the playground. Families and children sit around the table while chatting with each other. Music is played, and delicious foods and drinks are served. There are also games and activities, such as face paint, slides, and water tanks. Experiencing the warmth of summer, students get ready to start their wonderful new year.

Amy Hou had just become a 9th grader. With her friends from Middle School around, she says her favorite thing to do in the summer is to go to school.

It was a glow-in-the-dark party in the Kemper Gym this year at the Lower School Family Dance Night. Lower School Student Council worked closely with Upper School student volunteers to put on a neon-filled fun time. The Kemper Gym was filled with Lower School students and some parents. Of course, they played the night away in the bouncy house obstacle course, karaoke, photo booth and won lots of prizes. The night's event was funded by AWSPA. The AWSPA leads for the event were Tiffany Shaw, Kim Lane, and Sonia Pal.

LOWER SCHOOL FAMILY DANCE NIGHT

Casino Night is a night of fun and games for all Upper School students. This year the event took place on September 27th. Students and faculty got dressed up in their best Casino clothes and played games all night like poker, blackjack, and many others. All dormers got free entry, and a free bag of chips. At each table there was a faculty member to deal the cards. Annie Wright had a huge turn out this year. We not only had lots of Upper Schoolers attend, but we also had many students from other schools come to play. Everyone competed for amazing prizes. This year concert tickets for Bastille and Maroon 5 were available. Come join us next year for fun games and great prizes!

Dorm^{thx} giving Dinner

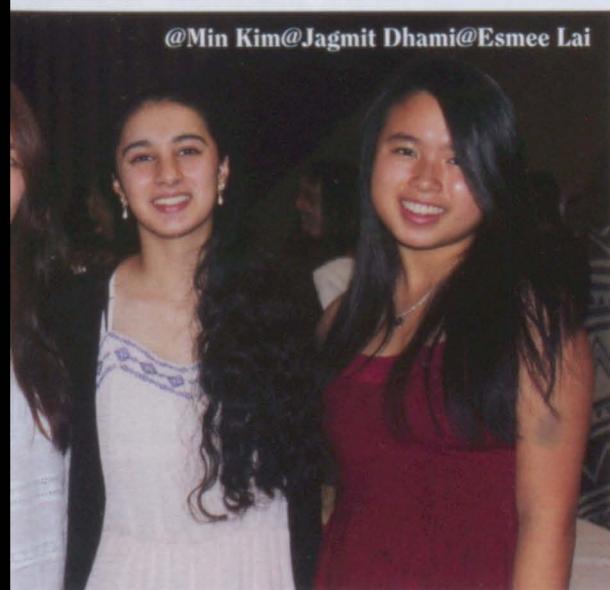

Turkeys are served at each table. For the past years, seniors have been in charge of cutting the turkeys. However, this year, one person is chosen from each table to do the job. For a lot of people, it was their first time using a big knife such. Cutting turkeys has always been one of the most exciting and memorable parts of Thanksgiving dorm dinner.

Jin Huang, Phoebe Brown, and Mari Anzai are freshmen at Annie Wright. You see these girls bonding with each other all the time: in dorm, on the basketball team, and of course, on Thanksgiving dinner night. Surprisingly, Jin and Mari both wore their native countries' traditional clothes. Although they are away from home, on this special night where people celebrate Thanksgiving surrounded by their friends and families, Jin and Mari were able to connect themselves to their home.

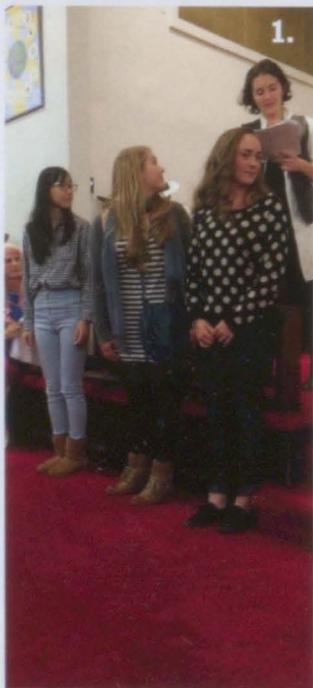

Liz Morgan came to Annie Wright as a yellow tie, and in the dorm, she is a really close friend with Gabrielle Buchan, a blue tie. On Thanksgiving dinner night, Liz and Gabrielle dressed up beautifully and enjoyed the time chatting with each other.

Be grateful. Dorm Thanksgiving formal dinner occurs before dormers go on Thanksgiving break. All dormers get dressed up and gather in the Great Hall. Each dinner table is "hosted" by a faculty member, usually with families as well. During the dinner, you hear everyone's chatting and laughter. People who would like to express their appreciations on anything can stand up and make a toast. This year, Hana El Safoury and An Dang also prepared a video in which many dormers expressed their gratitude toward people around them. This is one of the most warm and meaningful events in the Annie Wright community.

Iona Musgnung, Charlotte Scott, Mr. Weir, and Amy Lynn are all showing off their fashion designs for the fashion show.

1. Iris Li, Lauren Keltgen, and Cat Farrell got to be test guinea pigs because they made chemical formulas, and they had to be tested to see if they were poisonous.

4. Jake Guadnola posing for a picture with his son Gus and Ms. Stokes' children Eva and Silas Stokes.

5. Mrs. G is strangling her brother Mr. Fallat who is a fashionista.

1. Amy Lynn's death was tragic but not surprising! She was strangled to death by the murderer and Mrs. Matthaei the reporter is there to report her death.

2. Mrs. G is enamored with Charlotte Scott aka Freddie Bunsen "The Burner".

Mr. Orr playing as Little Itchy Richie Fingers is the host of "The Science Fair of Death"

Murder Mystery is an Upper School annual event at Annie Wright. Faculty and staff perform a comical play that they write themselves! This year the theme for the play was "The Science Fair of Death". This year Annie and Iona adapted a play original wrote by Jake! The objective of the play is to try to figure out who the murderer is. At the end of the play the murderer was John Weir, the art teacher, not his character Ulga Lee. What?

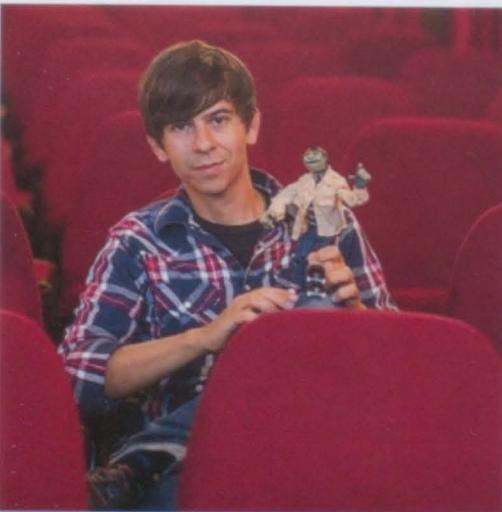

Murder Mystery?

Jeff Barber played a jock who didn't want to be a part of the "Science Fair" said something rude about science and Amy Lynn who is a total science geek gets offended by his remark.

Ms. Stokes is Mr. Orr's assistant host. In the beginning Mr. Orr is very impolite to Ms. Stokes. At the end of the play she stands up for herself and puts him in his place.

Design Teacher: Kyle Price

In Middle School Design, students work with the students on projects that go through the MYP Design Cycle-Inquiring and Analyzing, Developing Ideas, Creating the Solution, Evaluating. Some of the projects are just in Design, like Chindogu, which is the art of making useless items. But some projects are more connected to other classes, like the Valley Forge reenactment, which connected to Social Studies. Through the class, they're trying to help students with their group skills, to give them authentic opportunities to practice design thinking, and to improve their research and presentation skills.

Humanities B Teachers: Amy Lynn, Jake Guadnola, Bridgette McGoldrick

Humanities B is a skills based course. The purpose is to give students the skills they need in any English or History Unit. For example, they've focused on speaking skills, creative writing group dynamics. The class will help students to learn how to research, feeling comfortable talking about it from a historical point of view and from a fiction point of view to talk about literary elements.

Humanities A Teachers: Amy Lynn, Bridgette McGoldrick, Joseph Romano

Humanities A is the study of human culture and human endeavors. The study of literature and history are typically categorized within the Humanities, as are other academic disciplines, including philosophy, languages, and cultural studies. 9th Grade Humanities focuses on the disciplines of history and literary studies. It has two primary goals. First, prepare students for success in the high school and college (the three Humanities instructors have all taught at the university level, and in many different grade levels in the Upper School). This means the writing, reading, and research assignments build on students' knowledge and ability to succeed in their future History and English classes. Second, the students of Humanities immediately use the knowledge, perspectives, and skills of several academic disciplines to impact the world, however large or small this impact may be.

Middle School Experience Day

The Middle School spent three days participating in an experience that they usually wouldn't partake in in the traditional classroom. It was a fun way for the Middle Schoolers to try something new with their friends. This year there were many different options including Film, Chocolate, Chinese Cooking, Ballroom Dancing, and Weird Washington.

Imani Gant and Katye Mayora, both 8th graders, had fun in the Ballroom Dance Experiential Days. Here they are all dressed up and ready to show off what they learned.

Throughout this program the Lower School, Middle School, and Upper School put on an amazing show of fun loving comedy and serious, thought-provoking drama. The Lower School put on a Get Up Stand Up performance and The Middle School had many satirical skits that made the audience laugh. The Upper School finished the program off with an observation of judgment with Twelve Angry Men. It followed a case of a man on trial that hasn't been given a fair trial. This was brought to us by the masque players of the Upper School, including Cate Farrel, Emily Harper, Liz Morgan, Natalie Nygren, Adelia Cronin, Molly Bryant, Gabby McCarthy, and Deidra Dowell. The Middle school skits included Annika Huffines who says, " The skits were hilarious. I played the 'Dancer'. It also helped many of us get out of our comfort zone in many different characters. Mrs. Gettel always puts on amazing productions overall." The Lower School production was amazing and was directed by Daryn Sirota. She worked very hard on this production and helps with the Upper School productions often as well.

Shirley Wang has dedicated herself to the JV volleyball team for four years. It did not surprise anyone that she got emotional when her senior night finally came.

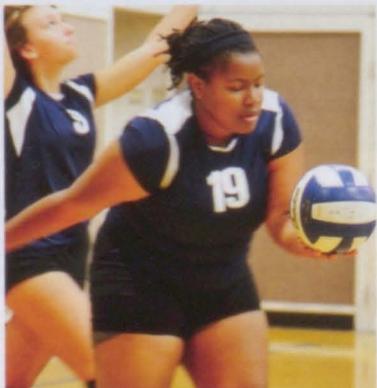

Coach Mackenzie is giving a warm-hearted speech to senior Janice Fang. Janice is an excellent volleyball player and a great person to work with. Just as Coach said, "What else can you ask for?"

This is Yuna Song's forth year on the Annie Wright volleyball team. Yuna has treated each practice with full efforts. She faces difficulties with her sweet smile and always cheers everyone up.

Maria Peterson is a big fan of AWS gators, and she "pinked out" for the senior night.

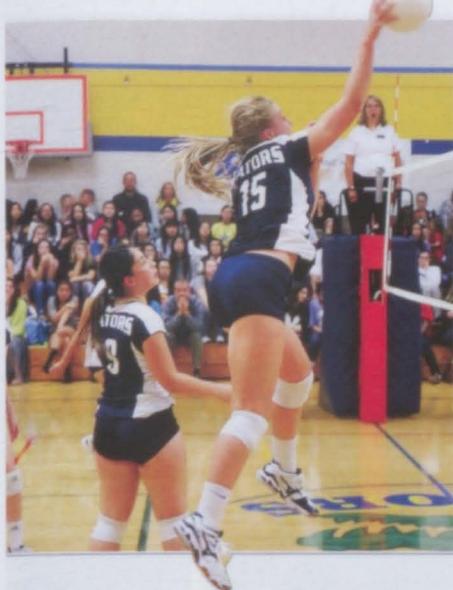

Erica Greening is warming up and practicing her serves before the game starts.

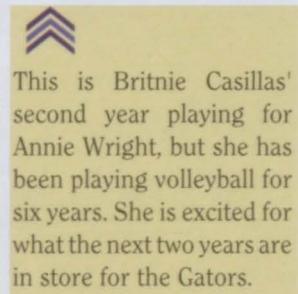

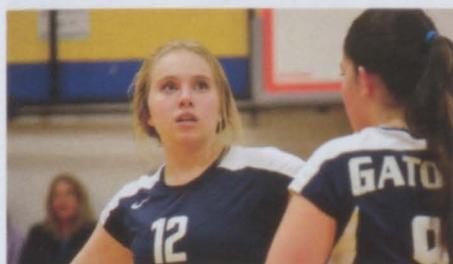

This is Esmee Lai's second year on JV volleyball team. For every game, she tries her best.

Lillian Li's name is bonded with volleyball. She practices really hard so that she can be always ready.

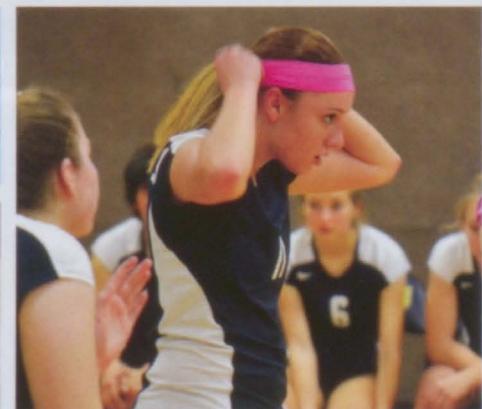

Whether it's a win or a loss, the team ends every game with salutations and high fives. They live by the motto "ohana," which means family.

This is Britnie Casillas' second year playing for Annie Wright, but she has been playing volleyball for six years. She is excited for what the next two years are in store for the Gators.

Kaley Turner is a very supportive person. On the team, she shows great commitment, confidence, and passion for volleyball. Before the season started, Kaley had a quick recovery from surgery and was back on the court to play her senior year.

Lexi LeClech likes to take off her headband in games when she gets anxious. But her outstanding volleyball skills and undefeatable confidence have allowed her to "put it back on" in almost every game she plays.

Maria Vipond has stayed on the volleyball team throughout her high school life. Volleyball has become an unbreakable part of Maria's life, and as all her teammates will say, the team needs her as well.

Get tough. The Upper School Volleyball Varsity team ended with ten wins and two losses. The team was composed of three seniors, one junior, six sophomores, and two freshman. Although they did not make it to state, this was a year to remember. Freshman Rylee Born said the highlight of the season was beating Charles Wright, 3-0.

Junior, Saya Fyock, has been doing cross country since Middle School and loves it. She was injured this season but still a key member.

Elly McManus, a senior this year, was also a key member of this team. Being the oldest, she had a sense of leadership this year.

Though this year's Cross Country season was short due to various injuries amongst the team, Senior Elly McManus, Junior Saya Fyock, and Sophomore Lauren Keltgen, ran simply because they love the sport.

To connect means to communicate. In the AWS dormitory program, prefects regularly go out with their dorm group's members for a walk to Starbucks or Tully's. Each dormer gets a cup of free coffee as well as a chance to talk about their school life with their big sisters. This photo was taken when Ton Wang and her prefect, Fah Chantieng, were walking to the Tully's on S Stadium Way and Division Ave. on an extremely rainy day. It was fun to listen to their conversation and to hear how much they loved the new Korean TV show "Pinocchio".

Family and Roommates

We are family. Over the years, many families have sent their daughters, sons, brothers and sisters to Annie Wright. Connecting the different generations, we acknowledge the current students with brothers, sisters, or parents still at Annie Wright or the Annie Wright Alumnus. We made new amigas from Spain this year, who quickly became close enough to become sisters. Maggie Wang, a blue tie dormer says, "Roommates definitely get closer than if they're not roommates, especially when you come as a freshman and know nobody, your roommate becomes your tour guide and support group."

Get in the spirit. Holiday Tea is a Middle School event hosted by the student council. The Middle School chorus sings Christmas songs to get into the spirit of the holidays and the approaching winter break. Hot chocolate is served with yummy treats. The highlight of the event is always the singing of the 12 Days of Christmas when each table comes up with their own addition to the song.

Middle School Chorus members Alexandra Bessler, Nina Ye, Sitara McMillin, Julia Hanly, Elisabeth Connell, Katye Mayora, Erica Chen, and Claire Graupensperger sing "Here Comes Santa Claus" for the Holiday Tea.

An Annie Wright tradition continues as many small children get in line to light a candle or sing a traditional Christmas tune. This tradition is known as Lessons and Carols. Many parents attend as well to support their little violinist or public speaker. Both the Upper School and Middle School complete this tradition as well. The students wear dress uniform and make sure it is perfect! Many students speak in their native language or perform a choir song in honor of this tradition.

Lower School Lessons & Carols:

Students from grades 1st through 5th participate in this service that takes place at the end of the school day before the beginning of the holiday vacation. 5th grade students read the lessons with carols being sung by students from every grade level. Student representatives from each class contribute in the tradition of bringing figures to the Creche. The entire student body sings "Silent Night" at the end of the service.

Early Childhood Lessons & Carols:

This service takes place in the morning of the final school day before the beginning of the holiday vacation. 5th grade students read the lessons and all kindergarten students participate in bringing figures to the Creche. The highlight of this service is Pre-Kindergarten joining 5th grade for the singing of "It Must Be Santa."

'Tis the season. "This traditional evening service has Middle and Upper School students reading the lessons of Christmas. Some of the readings are done in the student's native language. The carols are sung by the congregation as well as the Middle and Upper School choruses. Bishop Rickel and Reverend Kirkpatrick officiated the service. Leischen Moore, AWS vocal instructor, sang the "Ave Maria" during the service."

Spaghetti Feed & Bingo Night

Play hard. Spaghetti Feed & Bingo Night is a Lower School event organized by the AWSPA, with volunteer support from Annie's Angels. Parents and children first go down to the cafeteria and have spaghetti dinner together. Bingo usually starts around 7 o'clock in the Kemper Gym. People buy bingo cards and raffle tickets. The winners get prizes such as toys, backpacks, or key chains, and the raffle winners usually win bigger prizes.

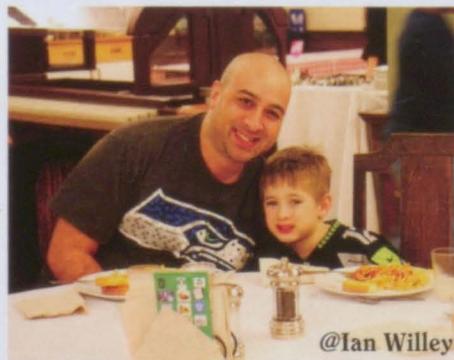

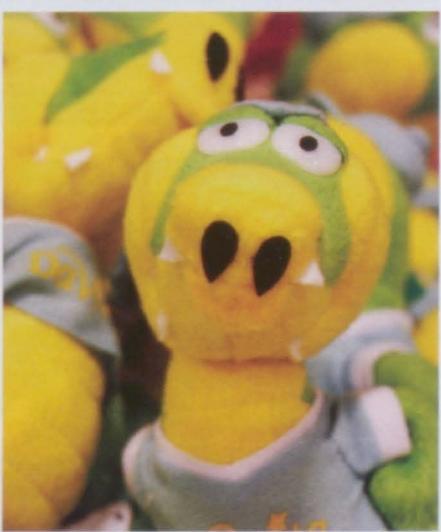

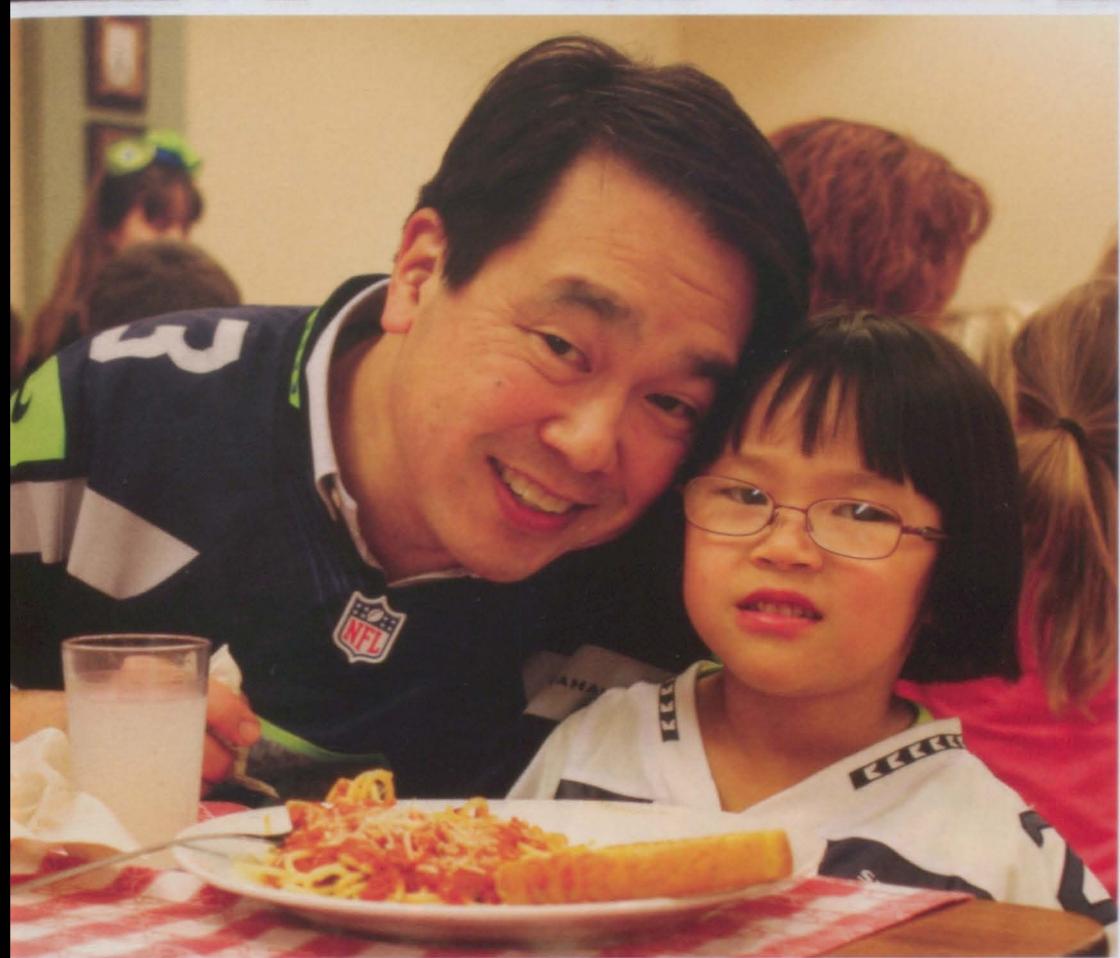

One of the busiest times of the year for the kitchen staff is the spaghetti night. They usually serve spaghetti, garlic bread, salad, and lemonade for parents and kids.

Mia Iriye is a Kindergartner, and she's enjoying her meal with her Dad. They were both wearing Seahawks jerseys to show their spirits.

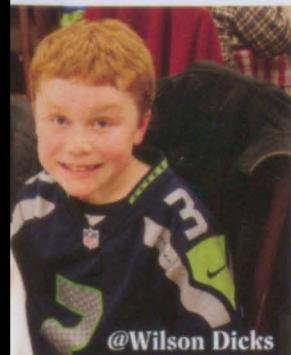

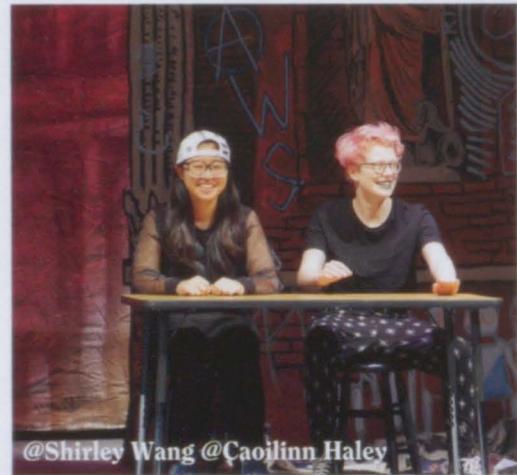

This year, Natalie Blake brought her little sister to spaghetti night as well. Of course, she didn't forget to take care of her little sister when she was trying to hold the plate filled with deliciousness.

Cameron Stockton just found a table to sit down at with her mom and the beautifully dressed little angel of the family.

Lip Sync is an Upper School tradition. Faculty and Upper School students perform songs that they pick to lip sync or dance to. At the end of the Lip Sync show, the audience choose who they think should be the winner of Lip Sync. The winners won a gift card to a restaurant of their choosing.

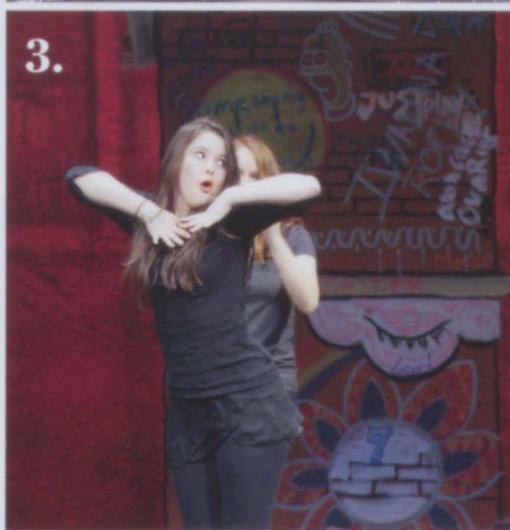

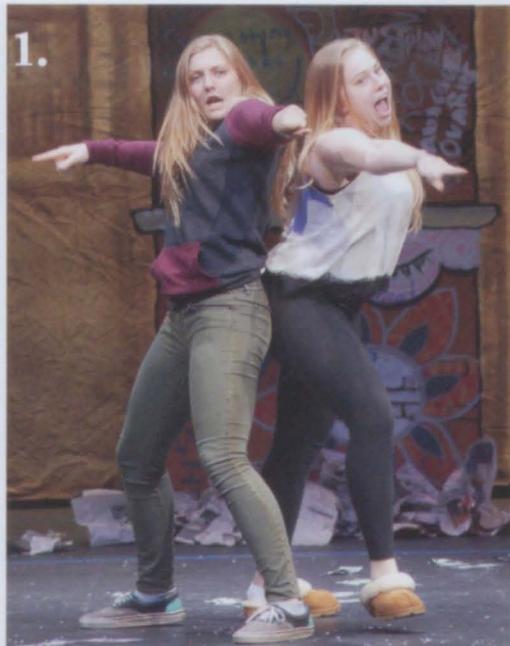

First place went to Korean Idols (Jeeyoung Kim, Yuna Song, Min Kim, and Aiden Hwang with special guests Jake Guadnola, Hyunyoung Kim & Josie Tiffany). Second to Indian Culture Club (Ameya Susarla, Hana El Safoury, Tess Williams, Panchali Majumdar, Harman Narwal, Quinn Grom, Ellie Krabill, Somee Jung, Alexis Joshua, An Dang and Jagmit Dhami). Third place went to Straight Out of Tacompton (Katherine Olivier, Virginia Walkey, Tana Givens, Sally Walker, Saya Fyock, Madison Archuleta, Noelle Dillman, and Emma Bock).

1. 10th graders Annika Cederstrand and Lauren Leeden dance to Uptown Funk during audience participation.

2. Jeeyoung Kim and Min Kim take a bow after their amazing performance.

Passion Project

Connect to interests. Passion project gives students the time and space to explore and pursue their passions. Our passion program provides students the opportunity to do just that: do the things they love in authentic, meaningful ways, within a framework that both encourages independence and provides support. 9th Grade students pursue their passions within general themes throughout the year. Four themes frame projects of their own choosing. In 10th Grade, students explore their passions in a more open-ended, less defined framework. This program includes giving presentations to their peers in the fall and to the faculty in the spring, as well as a culminating passion showcase for the entire school community in May.

"One of the projects I completed for my passion project this year included a music video I made during my trip to Spain. Throughout my month in Madrid, I took the liberty of filming and taking plenty of pictures of my friends, monuments, and food I encountered on my adventure. While filming and capturing candid moments I chose to specifically work on the perspective of my footage and photos. By changing my camera angles and focus, I was able to do exactly that."

@Elle Hansen

@Yoly Niu created a handwriting club that meets once a week. Improving her own handwriting has always been a passion of hers, and she hopes that in learning how to improve she can help others too.

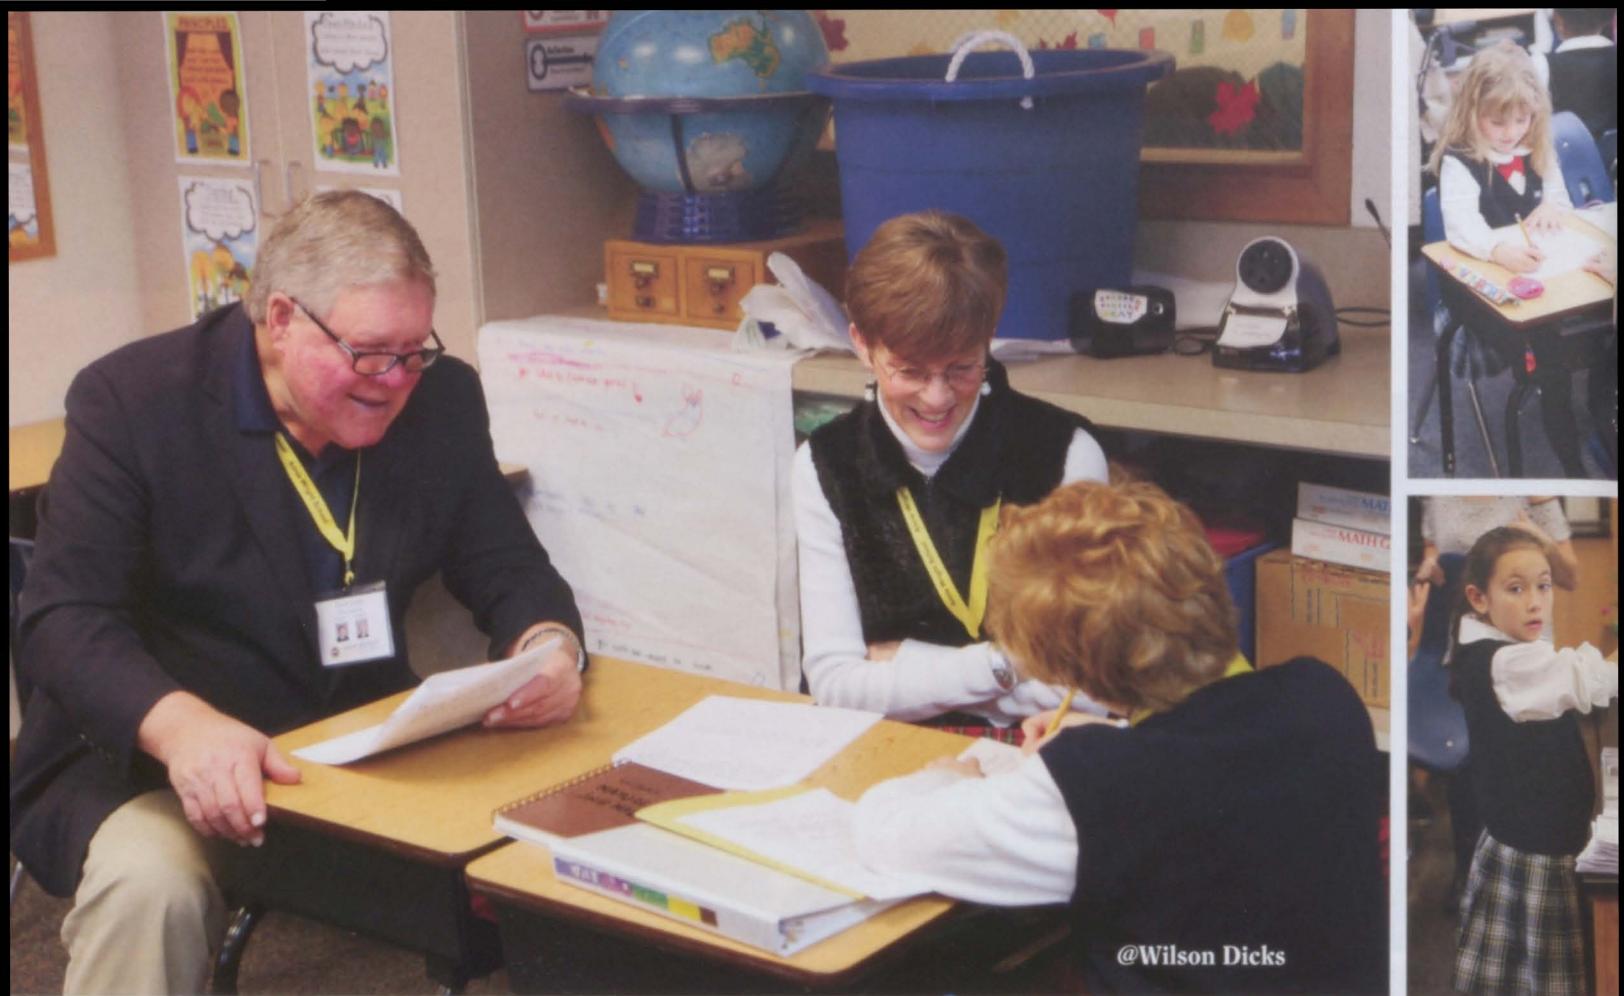

"My passion project is music, I tried different instruments like piano, violin, guitar, and I also practiced singing. I think that in passion project, you are not going to do something you do not really like perfunctorily. You will find what makes you feel happy and satisfied everyday. Music let me find my passion."

Living in the Moment

Spring is the season for life and flourish. Sunshine and blossoms surround the Annie Wright campus. At Annie Wright, it is also the season for outdoor sports like tennis, track, and golf. It is the season for adventure as Juniors go on their college trip and others go on Spring Break adventures. As the departures of Seniors is coming close and summer is quickly approaching, how do we stay connected?

Connect and have fun. Camp Seymour has been used for 6th grade camp for many years here at AWS, but 10th graders can certainly go to! The very first annual tenth grade retreat happened this year with the class of '17 yellow ties. Many girls were not thrilled to rough it in the woods with no cell phone reception, but ended up having an amazing adventure. Annie Green, the Upper School student dean, organized and made this entire weekend possible. She also gave the yellow ties a surprise of a lifetime when she revealed a few extra seniors had been hiding from the girls in their cabins and setting up almost every activity from afar.

Getting pinched for not wearing green on St. Patrick's Day is an American tradition, starting in the early 1700s. None of these fabulously dressed Day Schoolers were getting pinched on this St. Patrick's Day. They all really got into the spirit of the holiday.

Lower School ED & Clubs

In Extended Day, students can play outside and inside with toys and their friends. From pottery, to yoga, robotics, and many more clubs, Lower School students can spend their time after school doing whatever they love.

What club are you in, and why do you like it?

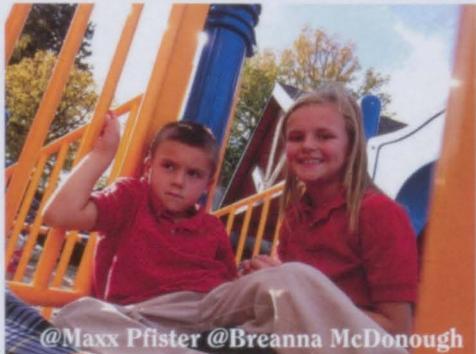

"I like Robotics because I can build stuff and they move, and I like robots. I watch Japanese shows and they have robots."

- Daniel Kao

@Greysen Hollister-Jensen

The Early Education ED plays on the playground and listens to stories on the golf green

@Maxx Pfister @Breanna McDonough

The Pottery Club make their own clay creations, roll out their own clay, and learn to clean up the Pottery Shed.

What club are you in and why do you like it?

"I like yoga because it helps my body relax. I really like doing the bridge."

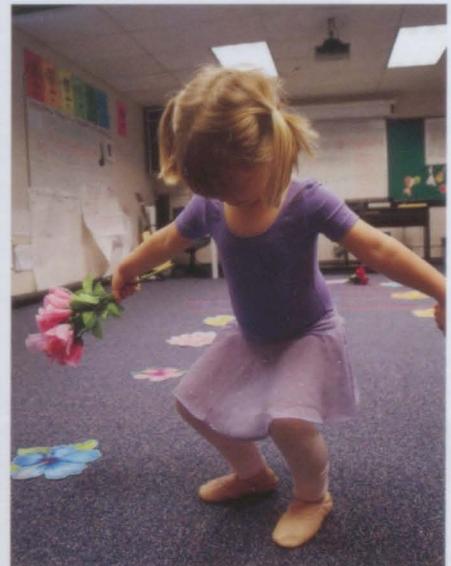

-Clara Fournier

Elisabeth Sargin pliés to the eagerly watching ballet class.

Tyler Weston launches his gator robot to move—opening and closing its mouth.

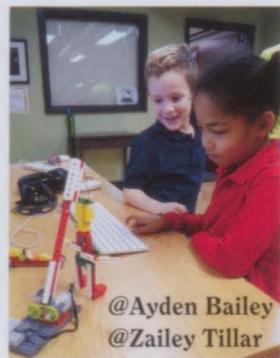

@Bo Jinhong

Connecting to the world. This year the Lower School continued in the process of becoming an authorized IB World School for PYP. PYP stands for Primary Years Programme and is the next step in the AWS vision of being an entirely IB World School. There has always been wonderful things that happen in Lower School classrooms but with the adoption of the IB PYP, our students are shining. Take a look at some of the amazing things Kindergarten, 1st Grade, 3rd Grade and 4th Grade did this year. From Kindergartener's building homes, 1st Graders building electrical circuit boards, 3rd Graders making fantastic animal masks and 4th Graders putting on an unforgettable Living Museum. Our students are always exploring how the world works and expressing themselves in new ways.

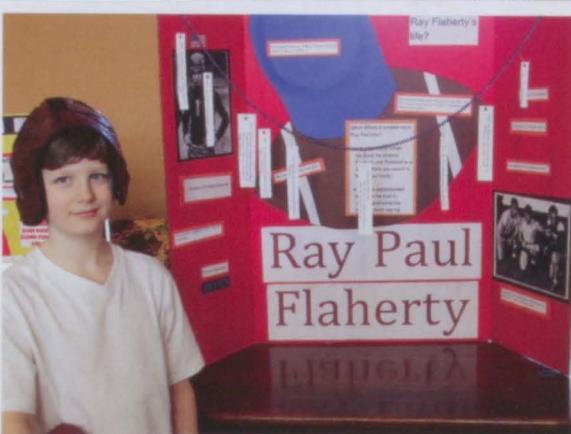

IS Academics

Loren Henson-Klinger project was on Matthew Alexander Henson, what a coincidence!

Sofia La Rosa went all out on her museum piece as Gabriel Garcia Marquez, Colombian novelist.

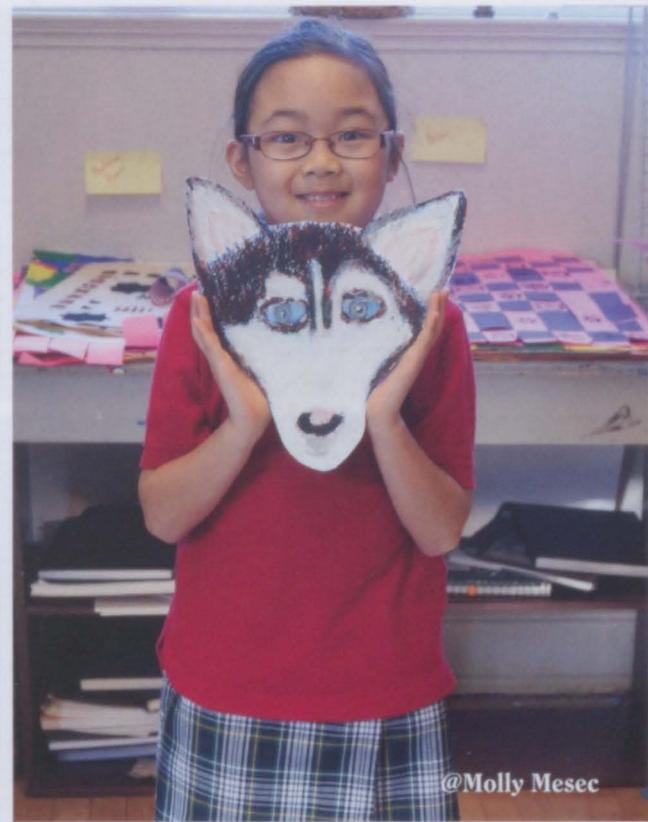

Johnathan Lane made an amazing poster board on Ray Paul Flaherty who was a football player born in 1903.

Days of Inquiry

In the Upper School, there were two days of inquiry this year. The first time was with your advisory and you get to do anything your advisory chooses to do within three days. The next time we did days of inquiry the seniors plan things to do in two days with the freshmen.

People

From strangers to friends. From meeting to recognizing and then knowing. From rejecting to accepting. From shyness to strengths. From "hello" to "goodbye". From arrival to departure. From the beginning to the end. Without noticing, another school year has slipped away through our fingers. At the end of the day, there is nothing more important than remembering these faces in our life because after all, connection means from me to you.

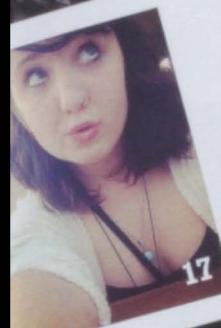

Selfies

Instagram has been popular for quite some time and is maintaining its popularity! A new trend that has swept the nation and our girls is the "selfie". A great way to express your beauty and individuality!

Another one of Annie Wright's biggest traditions is the seventh grade Milk Boat Race. Every year, the seventh grade is put into either Blue, Orange, White, Yellow or Black Team, and create boats made completely of milk cartons, wood and duct tape and compete in a race at Lake Washington. Last year's winning team was the Orange Team or "The Annoying Oranges". Their team included: Erica Chen, Corinna Davidson, Joshua Oie, and Micah Thompson.

- 1) The "Red Hot Lady Bugs Show off their boat.
- 2) Micah Thompson helps Joshua Oie out by carrying him back to the starting line.

All the teams line up on the shore of the lake anxiously waiting for Mr. Price to announce the start of the race.

Founder's Day

@Jan Buennagel @Robin Menke

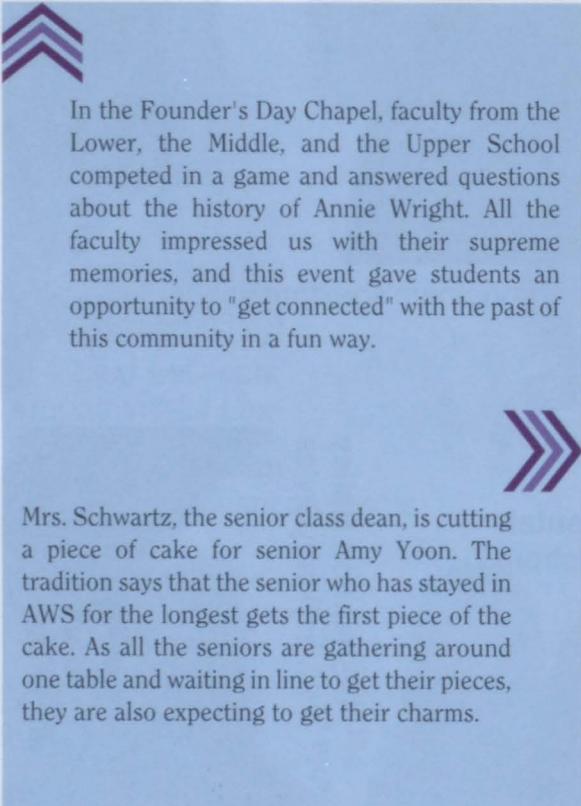

@John Hunt @Kyle Price

@Suan Bauska @Jake Guadnola

Mrs. Schwartz is introducing the cake and the Founder's Day traditions to the senior class.

Mrs. Schwartz, the senior class dean, is cutting a piece of cake for senior Amy Yoon. The tradition says that the senior who has stayed in AWS for the longest gets the first piece of the cake. As all the seniors are gathering around one table and waiting in line to get their pieces, they are also expecting to get their charms.

The owner of the thimble, Huong Nguyen, is being awarded for her hard work. Huong is from Vietnam, and this is her second year at Annie Wright.

The owner of the ring, Simran Pental, is "predicted" to be the first one who gets married in the senior class.

Alexis Joshua got the cross charm symbolizing the most religious.

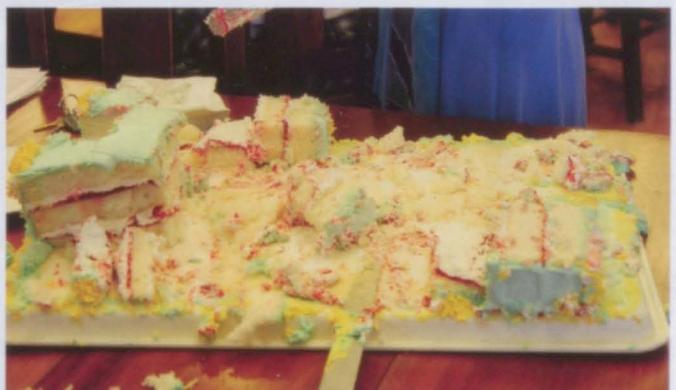

Nora Wheelehan (right) is helping Huong Nguyen (left) to look for if there is a charm in her piece of cake.

This is the senior class' cake before and after being combed through layer by layer.

In this picture is the Red Tie class sitting in the chapel. To a lot of them, it has not been long since they came to Annie Wright. Like everyone else, they are surprised by the difficulty of the questions in the game but also amazed by how much their teachers know about the history of this school.

A few minutes later, Andy comes out.

"So," I ask, "what'd she say to you?" The psychic walks out behind him with a strange expression on her face.

"You really want to know?" he asks as we head outside.

"Of course."

"She said I'm going to die tomorrow," he says.

"Yeah, right. Me, too," I say and laugh.

The sound of wind chimes cuts through my laughter, and when I look back I see the old woman standing by the door, looking down the street as us.

"Remember," she calls. "You can make your own future." She points one crooked finger at Andy.

Andy stares at her and then turns away. "Scam," he says to me.

EMMA JOHNSON

Dearest Emma,

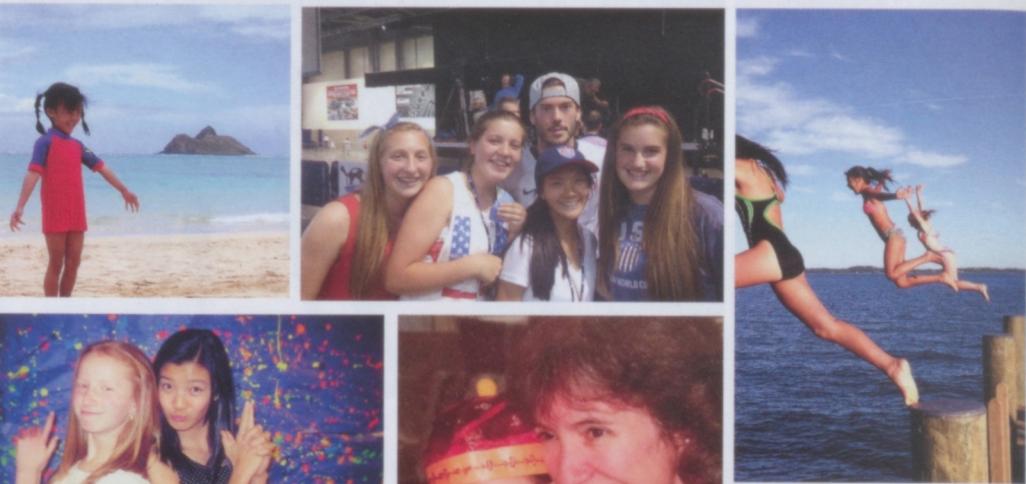

In our minds, you went from 'baby Emma' to 'Senior in high school Emma' in about 3 years. You will always be our little rubber rain boot wearing, standoffish (in a good way), brown-eyed tuffy, who would growl menacingly at strangers that dared to say 'hi' or smile at you! Seriously, it is a joy to see the lovely young woman; caring friend, sister, and daughter you have grown to be. You will always have our love and support through your college years and beyond. We'll be here for you, wherever life takes you.

We love you and are so very proud of you.

Olivia Steffen

Dear Olivia,

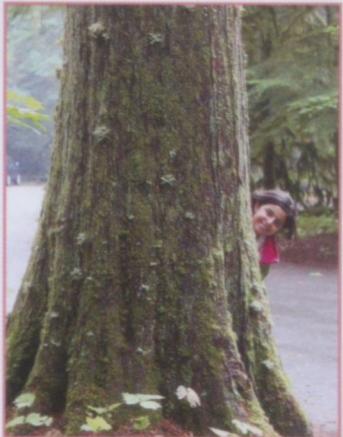

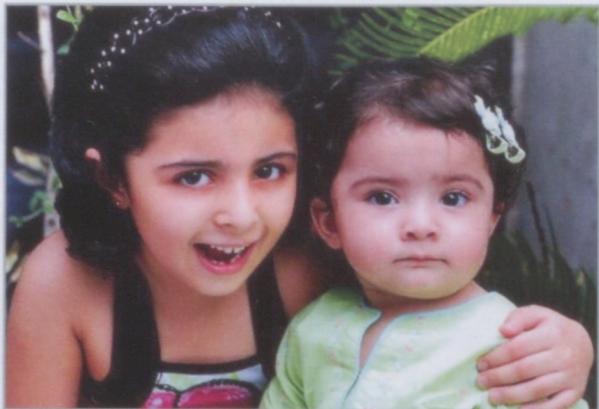

"Some people come into our lives, leave footprints on our hearts, and we are never the same." Franz Schubert

What other quote could explain the gift of our Olivia so perfectly? We have been so blessed every day living with and observing a small laughing child that has grown into a mature confident woman. Seeing your dedication to any task, including, but not limited to: school, church, piano, mission trips, or community projects is inspiring to say the least. Yet, with everything that has been demanding of your attention you still take time for your family, especially laughing and rough housing with your brother. You will soon be spreading your wings at college and Mom and I will stand back and watch your new adventure with awe and amazement. We are so very proud of you!!

Sujing Wei will be attending Penn State.

"Why would we have a mascot? I am studying fashion, not attending sports games."

Christine Chau will be studying at London College of Fashion.

Janice Fang and Amy Yoon both chose UC - Berkeley as their home for the fall.

Panchali Majumdar, Cocoa Gu, and Paris Chen will be spending four more years together at University of Wisconsin, Madison.

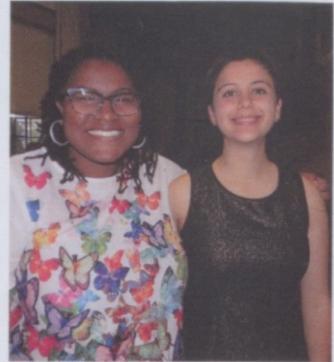

The notoriously artsy best friends Caoilinn Haley and Sophie Story will be in Seattle this fall at Cornish College of the Arts.

RingDessert

Erica Greening and Nora Lynch showed their excitement for the new year coming as seniors.

A long held Annie Wright tradition is the Ring Dessert. Every year the Sophomore class plans a celebratory event of the juniors becoming seniors, and are presented with rings to signify this. This is a special time for both classes involved, and is used to reflect on the years spent together, as well as looking forward to the new year coming. Congratulations class of 2016!

Sophomores, Adelia Cronin and Virginia Miller, show their love for blue tie Sally Walker!

Prom 007 Casino Royale

The Blue Tie class planned a 007 themed prom, which was located at Post Hall in Downtown Tacoma. Students wore their best suits and dresses for this special, once in a lifetime dance. The tables were decorated with various items, such as playing cards, stickers, and poker chips. There was a photo booth where students could hold up signs and take photos with their friends. Thanks, Blue Ties for an unforgettable event.

Deidra Dowell, Shannon Bailey, and Adelia Cronin got all dolled up for this year's prom. "I spent all day Saturday doing my makeup." said Deidra.

Middle School Play

This year's play was a modern day Romeo and Juliet. It starred James Parrott as Romeo and Jessica Zou as Juliet. There was a cast of sixteen amazing actors and actresses directed by Mrs. Gettel. The show had lots of great moments that made the audience laugh. It ran for two nights and was loved by all audience members. It was a great production that was well acted and directed. Congrats to all actors and Mrs. Gettel on a great performance.

The Capulets standing on the stairs for opening scene of the play.

Juliet played by Jessica Zou mourns the death of her one true love, Romeo played by James Parrott.

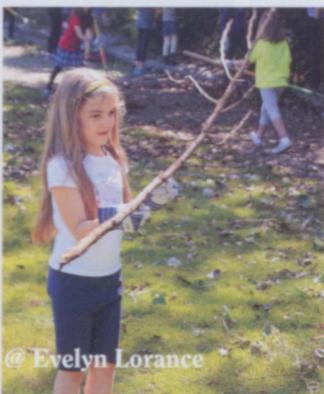

Earth Day

The Earth Day Service Event is a yearly event that takes place at Annie Wright. Every year on this day, the Lower, Middle, and Upper School of Annie Wright work together to get the job done. All of the students and the faculty and staff cover a section of Garfield Park to weed, rake, trim, and clean up. This is in celebration of the upcoming global celebration of the Earth.

@ Evelyn Lorance

Mr. Weir, Bella Eisenhart, Audrey Linehan, and Cosette Williamson work together as a team to get rid of all the excess pile of leafs and branchs that need to be discarded to keep Garfield Park beautiful!

Jaskiran Pental and Allison Fitz work side by side keeping the glitch free of invasive weeds!

The yearbook staff brainstormed ideas about staying connected. Each staffer came up with a word that came to mind when thinking about this year's yearbook theme. Thanks to everyone on the team for capturing and presenting such wonderful moments and memories in this book.

You are now connected

The theme of the 2015 Shield, Get Connected, is a concept exploring how our community stays connected with each other and the world throughout the year. The idea was developed throughout the month of September during yearbook activity.

The 16 members of our staff met Wednesday and Friday during activity time, creating a 200-page book with a custom screened cover in Pearl Drop 559 with a Sonic Blue Foil 370. The 510 copies of Get Connected were printed at the Jostens Publishing plant in Visalia, CA. Every student at Annie Wright Schools received a yearbook this year. Funding for the yearbook was provided by tuition, personalization, recognition ads and senior pages.

Special thanks to Alex Larson our Jostens Sales Representative and Tina Nilo our Plant Consultant for putting up with our tardiness this year.

Madí, thanks for being a pinch hitter and helping us out anywhere and everywhere. Emma and Katherine, thanks for miraculously getting all of your pages done. Britnie, we really hope you come back next year because you're a great addition to the team. Zyaire, thanks for putting in so much effort. Chanel, thanks for making us laugh. Katie, thanks for all of your creative ideas. Sofia, you handled some of the hardest pages masterfully. Lexi, thank you for bravely taking on one of the biggest jobs this year. Mindy, you turned in some of the best pages of anyone. Lauren, thanks for all of your hard work. Rachel, thanks for picking up the slack in areas you weren't planning on. Sophie, you did a great job editing and handling your workload. Abbey, you are always so reliable. Thank you. Cosette, your pages are awesome and thank you for helping out with senior pages. And last but not least, thank you Maggie, for all of your help, great ideas, amazing designs and admirable work ethic.
